COLMER'S ELECTION OVER PARADE BY CONGRESSMAN HALL EVIDENT BY VOTE LEAD

Coast District Attorney 768 Votes Ahead With Only 13 Boxes Out—Thames Nomination Acceded Over Dist.

Latest returns from Tuesday's Sixth District Democratic congressional primary cut down the lead of W. M. Colmer of Pascagoula, coast district attorney, over Representative R. S. Hall of Hattiesburg to less than 1000 votes.

With only 13 precincts missing in the 311 precincts of the district, Colmer's lead was trimmed to 768. These unofficial returns gave Colmer 15,919 and Hall 15,151.

One of the run-off races for highway commissioner was definitely settled with the renomination of James F. Thames of Mendonah, commissioner from the southern district, who was leading Archie McCormick of Laurel by 5962 votes with 33 precincts missing.

Thames, Linker Lead

The contest in the Northern Highway Commission District between F. L. Linker of Oxford, incumbent, and Marvin Pearce of Fulton appeared settled in favor of Linker with only nine scattered precincts missing. Linker, consistently ahead, had a lead of 1820 votes.

The results follow: Northern Highway District—Linker 27,824; Pearce 26,004; Southern Highway District—Thames 30,380, McCormick 24,418.

The contests were a follow-up from the August 23 first primary when the leaders in the count failed to receive a majority of the votes cast in their respective districts.

One Campaign Promise

Colmer made his campaign on only one promise, "to be honest." Hall asked his return to the House on his record of service.

Mississippi congressional primary nominees are planning to run as candidates at large from the state in the November general election because of a court contest of the state redistricting law and a federal injunction issued against entering district nominees in the general election.

A general field of candidates at large for congressional positions is expected.

HIGHWAY BRIDGE AT HENDERSON POINT IS OPENED TO TRAFFIC

Former Public Menace Replaced With New and Better Bridge and Hailed With Satisfaction

One-way passage over the new bridge on the Old Spanish Trail over Pass Christian Isles canal east of the Bay St. Louis auto bridge was formally opened and dedicated to public use last Wednesday evening with little or no interruption as the new structure was built below and under the former bridge. In order to use the new bridge it was only necessary to remove the former structure.

The State Highway department constructed this new bridge which is twenty feet wide, built of creosoted timbers and level with the bed of the Trail road. This in contrast to the high and dangerous arch bridge that was used formerly.

About three weeks was consumed in building the new bridge and this was accomplished with detouring traffic. The new structure is wide and roomy, level with the road-way and removes a former danger that caused many mishaps. In future there will be no reason for the slightest untoward incident. The State Highway Department and Commissioner James Thames have accomplished much in the building of this bridge and in future obviating possible danger.

Dr. A. R. Robertson Well-Known Banker and Coast Citizen Better

The report of the improved condition of Dr. A. R. Robertson is gratifying to a wide number of friends and acquaintances along the gulf coast, where the doctor is both well known professionally and also a banker, since he is vice president of the chain of Hancock County Banks on the coast. He was removed from the hospital at Gulfport to his home at Pass Christian during the early part of the week.

Dr. Robertson was stricken last week with a slight stroke of acute form. We are glad to know that not only has he rallied but will soon be on the high road to recovery, so rapid and decisive is his improvement.

REPORT OF FIRST MEETING CENTRAL P. T. A. MONDAY

Mrs. C. C. Clark, President, Presided—Mrs. C. C. McDonald's Discussion.

The first regular meeting of the Central School P. T. A. was held Tuesday afternoon September 13th, at the school auditorium. A large number of interested and enthusiastic members were present to enjoy the program which was as follows: Opening—Mrs. C. C. Clark. President's Message—Mrs. C. C. McDonald.

Discussion of Child Welfare Magazine by Mrs. Da Ponte. Message from the Faculty—Mr. Ingram.

Greetings to the Faculty—Mrs. Terry. Mr. Ingram's talk was especially interesting to parents, as he made clear many points about home work and the courses of study offered, which were probably never explained clearly by the children. He also told why the school is accredited and our graduates accepted by all State universities and almost all other Southern colleges, giving due credit to the Parent-Teachers' Association for their help and cooperation.

Mrs. Evans, the Health chairman, made an interesting report on the success of the Health Round-Up, during the summer. Thirty tons of operations were performed and many dental corrections made. Little 15-months old Gerald January was introduced as one of the outstanding cases of pre-school children benefited by the Round-Up.

The third grade won the attendance prize for this meeting with fifteen parents and teachers to their credit.

No Announcement Yet As To County Game Warden For Hancock

As The Echo goes to press information is to the effect that no appointment by the State of game warden for Hancock county has as yet been announced. It will be remembered a number of local residents journeyed to Wiggins to undergo a rigid examination, which, by law, must precede the appointment. A number from Bay St. Louis made the trip and took the examination and are still awaiting to hear of the appointment.

The game warden's office was created by a recent act of legislature. The position pays $900 per annum with a $50.00 per month expense account.

CIRCUIT COURT IN SESSION

Fall term of Circuit Court for Hancock County convened Monday and adjourned to Wednesday morning and has been in session ever since with a fairly heavy docket and only one murder case to be heard. Judge White is on the bench and District Attorney Bill Colmer in his accustomed place representing the State with characteristic alertness and efficiency, assisted by County Attorney E. J. Gex, equally on the job.

Others in their accustomed places are Clerk of the Courts A. G. Favre and Sheriff T. E. Kellar and their respective assistants.

C. J. Pitre, Bay St. Louis resident and business man, is foreman of the Grand Jury and report from that body is expected some time before this Friday noon, it was stated.

A. & G. Theater Bldg. Improved Both Within And Without

The northside of the A. & G. Theater was made waterproof by a process of dry cement stucco work, conforming with the south side of the building. Jos. L. Favre & Son had the contract and did the work within a comparative short time.

The interior of the building has been entirely redecorated and panels of paintings executed by Harry L. Witter, who has painted scenes of beauty and artistic finish. The interior of the A. & G. Theater will compare favorably with any building of the kind between New Orleans and Mobile. It is a credit both to Bay St. Louis and its enterprising owner and managers.

Incidentally it might be said here the A. & G. has a program of outstanding features for the entire winter season, pictures that are featured in metropolitan centers.

Boston Shoe Store Announces New Feature Shoe For Less Money

PEOPLES' BLDG. AND LOAN ASS'N DECLARES SEMI-ANNUAL DIVIDEND

Has Never Failed To Pay Cash Dividend All During Depression Period And Is Active.

Holders of paid-up stock certificates in the Peoples' Bldg. and Loan Association of Bay St. Louis on September 1, received a cash dividend of 2 per cent semi-annual declaration, and owners of installment stock also were credited with a like dividend.

While the bulk of homestead associations have failed to pay any dividend during the depression of the past two years or more, the Peoples' of Bay St. Louis has never failed to pay and stockholders are naturally jubilant over the soundness of their investment and the fact they are receiving semi-annual dividends as usual.

This dividend was declared after an exhaustive audit had been made of the association's books by A. C. Kirschmann, of the Auditing Department of the State of Mississippi, and supervisor of the building and loan associations of the State of Mississippi in response to a request by the association, and the books were audited August 27, 1932.

Gov. Bilbo is an interesting speaker and regardless of his candidacy will have much to say, no doubt.

The Florida Times-Union says: "Massachusetts is raising a row over a portrait of a governor with his hands in his pockets. Well, that's better than showing him with his hands in the Treasury."

PEARL RIVER STUDY HAILED IN BOGALUSA FOR THE FUTURE

Report on Possibility of Making Stream Navigable Assured.

Army engineers have begun a general survey of Pearl river, starting at Pearl river bridge and continuing to the Rigolets. It is expected that the work will be completed within the next 30 days, and the report they make will decide if the river is to be made navigable.

Bogalusa citizens are elated over the survey, declaring that if indications were not favorable for making the stream navigable, the engineers would not have been ordered there for this work. If the river is made navigable, it will not only prove of great benefit to the various industries now located there, but will be an added inducement in securing new industries.

No One Saw Auto Accident of Last Week Is Reported To The Echo

Inasmuch as it is reported that no one actually saw the accident of the Lacoste automobile and Pinski automobile in a crash Saturday week the report in last week's Echo, it is said, is at variance with the actual facts. Exception is taken to this sentence, namely: "The Lacoste car caught the Pinski car broadside and turned it around, etc."

It is advised that the Pinski car was coming up Main street at a speed exceeding what it should and caught the Lacoste car, striking the radiator. It was by this impact, report says, that the Pinski car swerved around and struck the water plug on the church premises at the corner Main and Second streets, and thus sustaining the damages broadside of the car.

This correction is made by request and for the sake of getting the record straight for whatever developments may occur.

"Gray Castle" At Pass Christian Has Closed For Winter Season

After a successful summer season "Gray Castle," located on East Beach at Pass Christian, closed Thursday of this week by Mrs. Blakemore who operated the place to the general satisfaction of a choice clientele from New Orleans and other points. The beauty place, with its atmosphere of comfort and culture, and the graciousness of its hostess, Mrs. Blakemore, pervading on every side, is desired by many coast visitors and it is no wonder its patronage each succeeding season increases.

Mrs. Blakemore will be located in New Orleans for the winter.

The Hines interests still declined to pay the judgment and Knox obtained an execution on their holdings, which, with interest, had increased to $120,000. The defendants countered by obtaining an injunction in federal court preventing collection of the judgment, contending they had been discriminated against as non-residents.

Judge Holmes dissolved the injunction but his action was reversed by the United States circuit court of appeals, which sent the case back to the district court for rehearing. Last June additional evidence was taken before Judge Holmes, resulting in the decision made.

PLAN TO PREVENT FIRES.

CALLING attention to the deplorable loss of human lives and the property waste of approximately half a million dollars a year through fires, President Hoover proclaimed the week of October 9th to be observed by the citizens of the nation as "Fire Prevention Week."

This should have direct appeal to every reader of this paper and more particularly so here at home. Too often these national week observances give the impression of too frequently of a national and general flavor to the extent that all local sense of application is lost. In Bay St. Louis and other adjacent places "Fire Prevention Week" should mean something. Perhaps if Mayor Traub and commissioners were to issue a like proclamation it would draw the subject to closer and more adequate consideration.

The President, in his proclamation, calls attention to the per capita loss in this country which is now nearly doubled what it was twenty years ago.

Nearly everyone realizes that many fires are caused each year by carelessness and the negligent failure on the part of property owners and tenants to take reasonable precautions to avoid such a disaster.

The Sea Coast Echo, in calling attention to this week, which is one of many proclaimed for various purposes in this country, hopes that its readers will not pass the subject by with a casual yawn but that each one will make a special effort to check up on his or her premises and see that fire hazards are reduced if not altogether removed.

OFFER AND SELL THE BEST

REAL ESTATE agents do the community in which they live a vast benefit when they attract the attention of prospective clients to the better values and more attractive property on the market.

The object of boosting and sustaining values is obvious. A better citizen and a more desirable resident wishes the best he can afford; he wishes to live in such community to which his taste and inclination offers more appeal and he expands and grows with the place.

The seller, if he has a better house or place will get the better price and remuneration in the last analysis to which he is entitled in return for his investment of both taste and money.

It appears not a good policy to sell a man for the mere fact of selling anything that might strike a deal because it is cheap. Such policy is really "cheap" inasmuch it cheapens the entire fabric of our system of living and doing. And finally does the community no good.

THE ONE-EYED AUTOMOBILE HAZARD.

THE attention of this newspaper has repeatedly been called to a public menace of no mean magnitude. Reference is made to the many automobiles allowed night after night to run the streets and highways with only one fore signal light. This, perhaps, is the most dangerous and vicious hazard possible existing after nightfall, in addition to the fast driver.

The one-light auto is not only local but entirely too general. One meets with this danger on every side. It is hard in the dark to tell on which side the "one-eyed auto" has the only one light. There are laws to cover this deficiency. If not there should be. But better still a strict enforcement of requiring two lights should be enforced on the scale of common sense and safety if not for no other reason.

USE OF RADIO CURTAILED.

BROADCASTING by both parties will not equal the use of the radio during the 1928 campaign when more than $1,000,000 was spent to send the speeches through the ether. It is now considered doubtful whether the two major parties will spend half as much as they did in that year. Money is not as plentiful and, besides, rates charged for time on the air have soared. In 1928, an hour could be purchased on the combined networks for about $17,000, about one-half what it would cost now. The Republicans are expected to use about $250,000 for radio facilities and the Democrats are not expected to exceed that amount.

New that the congressional elections are numbered with the things that were it seems possible we may get more news of value and interest from our daily newspapers than in the past few weeks. The daily press from our sister State to the west has carried tons of campaign thunder that in fact neither instructs nor interests the average reader. The same may be said of a few—and thanks for their paucity in number—Mississippi newspapers that have bored us with the political has-beens and other sore-heads who are trying to make a come-back.

Church collections show little indication that the depression is retreating.

Classified advertising is the modern vehicle to bring in dollars for unused and discarded articles.

Our own idea is that too much newspaper space is given to the ideas of worn-out politicians.

BUSINESS IMPROVES SLOWLY.

THE signs multiply that conditions are beginning to improve, and the seasonal fall increase in business is beginning to be felt. This in itself is a good omen, because last year, and in 1930, the downward tendencies completely nullified the usual annual autumn pick-up.

The recent announcement that the government controlled stocks of wheat and cotton would be kept off the market for some time is expected to help the farmers get a better price. This is the hope of the nation, because normal business depends upon restoration of the purchasing power of the agriculturalists. Better prices for wheat and cotton will mean more business for factories and business houses generally this fall.

While elements of this character indicate for a better phase of conditions they do not directly concern this section of Mississippi gulf coast, however, they will reflect in time and the hope is expressed that the process of percolation will be sufficient rapid to feel the indirect result at no too far distant time. Since this section draws principally from the outside world for its share of plenty we cannot but look forward to these outward and somewhat foreign signs even to our own immediate betterment.

The public, which has the stock market advances in mind, is apt to pay too much attention to this phase of activity. The recent rises have not been justified by any new earnings of the major companies, although they are justified by the knowledge that stock values dropped far below their intrinsic worth during the pell-mell rush of the public to sell everything.

There are signs that justify optimism at this time. However, the reader should not jump to the conclusion that the country is about to get out of its depression. The contrary seems to be true. Evidence exists to indicate that there is much room for improvement, notably in the automobile industry, the steel plants and railway car loadings, still far below average, indicate only a slow return to normal.

Any government can tell you today that it is easier to issue bonds than to pay for them.

PROGRESS WITHOUT EXPENSE.

COMMUNITY progress is not always a matter of expense.

In flush times we easily get the habit of appraising a civic undertaking's worth by the amount of money it cost. Nothing could be more foolish.

Civilization is a question of living. Whatever makes life more pleasant, convenient and cultured is a distinct advantage to the people of any city or town. There are many social activities that could be developed in Bay St. Louis that would add much to our community life without adding to the cost of our daily existence. These could be had in addition to our Rotary club, Parent-Teachers' organizations and others at no additional cost and with little or no effort.

Civic leaders, in looking for something to do to improve Bay St. Louis should not overlook the boys and girls who are growing up in our midst, even though we have our excellently-organized and active Boy Scouts and other possible organizations. Literary and study clubs, travel clubs where adult may speak from time to time to young members all have an essential appeal that should prove of compelling interest.

To add to the joy of their young lives is a worthy subject. It can be done without involving great expenditures if a score or more adults will give some of their time to the purpose.

There are undoubtedly additional facilities to be developed for the benefit of adults. These do not have to cost money. Numerous clubs, associations, and organizations, for cultural, educational, spiritual purposes, are not represented here. To develop and round out the lives of some of our adult citizens they should be.

If the present depression could force us to look to our own inherent capacities for some of the things we have been accustomed to buy the people of Bay St. Louis might find out that they have rare talent in their midst and unsuspected powers along many lines.

Hunters will furnish their usual list of victims this fall.

INVESTMENT AND GULF COAST REALTY.

WHILE paper values have soared and slumped and in many instances wiped away completely, real estate remains the most dependable investment after all that is said and done.

Holders of wealth in paper are left practically penniless while he who has realty investment, particularly improved, still holds the intrinsic value if not the full market demand. However, with the upward trend of times it is evident values will soon reach closer to normal than over the past two or three-year period.

The subject whether real estate is the better investment must still remain debatable, for there is and always has been a division of opinion. This is better expressed by the individual who will have none of the improved or unimproved realty values while another will have nothing else.

Than the improved no better kind of real estate is desirable, to have, to hold or to sell. The stock market may crash and other values may go to pieces but in the last analysis the home or house is always there—in fact, ever visible and a most tangible asset.

REALTY along the Mississippi Gulf Coast has an appeal of value like no where else. That is in normal proportion and the individual who has invested in such may feel satisfied that he will not lose out but on the contrary has the promise, if not the assurance, enhancement and profit will follow in time.

With real estate investment there is little or no chance of losing out—if you have, dear reader, the right kind. Always buy the best, the better kind and be willing to pay the price. It will yield handsomely.

Bay St. Louis boys and girls are back in school. The earnestness of most of them would surprise many adults.

LOCAL SIDELIGHTS.

AN UNFORGETTABLE EVENING AT PASS CHRISTIAN.

A FEW evenings since Dr. and Mrs. D. G. Rafferty entertained at their inviting home on the Pass Christian beach members of the Harrison-Hancock-Stone Medical Society, members of the Ladies' Auxiliary and a number of invited guests.

This affair was marked a success from many angles. First by the hospitality of the host and hostess, by the setting which their dream garden gave and thirdly, but not least, by the interior of their home which is furnished in exquisite taste of a period of days that are long gone.

None who visit the famous Rafferty garden will ever forget its charm of landscape effect, the sunken garden, the trellis house and walls of vine growth here and there, all fitting in the alluring picture that forms a perfect setting. Here one finds many specimens. There are roses and other flowers in profusion and vines and shrubs of vast collection.

On the broad lawn of a section of the garden an orchestra from "the Sunny South" discoursed typical numbers of jazz and songs of other days, and lending an atmosphere to the garden party preceding the indoor supper like nothing else could be conceived.

Within the home, with its colonial settings and antique pieces, all in perfect harmony, Mrs. Rafferty presided at the long table in the dining room where the good things to eat were dispensed. The holder of a plate would soon leave with its burden of delicious food and repair to individual tables where small parties assembled and joined in the enjoyment of supper served in such atmosphere of charm.

It had been originally planned for a later hour to hold a meeting of the medical fraternity when papers were to have been read and discussed, but the lure of the evening at the Rafferty home was too compelling to leave at such hour as the meeting would have demanded and instead the evening at the Rafferty home was unbroken, enjoyed and all-absorbing until a late hour. An unforgettable evening.

AMUSEMENT ESSENTIAL FOR BETTER LIVING.

While Bay St. Louis is essentially a city of homes, churches and schools where one may live in ideal happiness and according to the prescribed rules of righteousness and endeavor, it is as well a resort and place of outdoor recreation, attracting thousands each season who come and return.

But there has always been a complaint as to a dearth of amusement to that vast number who come out for a short while or weekend periodically and who are in quest of further attraction and amusement.

Under the latter heading "Uncle Charley's Nite Club" serves a vast clientele visiting this section and which has served to admirable purpose of entertaining the many who have visited here.

To the outside reader "Uncle Charley" is Mr. Charles A. Breath, called uncle but still a young man who knows how to serve and to please; who gives the maximum of entertainment under highly disciplined supervision. It is a favorite and popular retreat for ladies and gentlemen and the fact that this club will continue to function thru the winter will prove welcome news. If we must work, as we must, then we must play. There is nothing so dull as Jack who works and never plays.

AND NOW WE MAY LOOK FOR SHORT-CUT ROAD.

With the completion of hard-surfacing the Old Spanish Trail link between Bay St. Louis and Pearl River state boundary line, there remains nothing to wish for but the building of the short-cut route. It is observed that now we have accomplished the finishing of the O. S. T. link we may turn our efforts and comment to that direction looking forward to the building of the short-cut. It is stated this will save the motorist twenty-five miles each way between Bay St. Louis and New Orleans, a total of fifty miles and a saving well worth striving for to say nothing of saving in time and wear of machine and saving in gas. Highway Commissioner Thames has expressed himself unreservedly in favor of the short-cut, Hancock county Board of Supervisors have gone on record ready to do its share and nothing remains but for Louisiana authorities to act. Louisianans are as anxious as Mississippians for the building of the short-cut and expect it is but reasonable to expect an early consummation of this devout wish. Other projects of the kind that were seemingly impossible have become realities. Why not the short-cut?

PUBLIC SCHOOLS SHOW PROGRESS BY AUGMENTED ENROLLMENT.

Enrollments in all schools are large. In the county schools exclusive of Waveland and Bay St. Louis there are approximately 1300 students enrolled, A. S. McQueen, county superintendent of education, states. At Waveland there are about 100 students. In Bay St. Louis between 450 and 500 students are at the Central High School building.

SNIDER REBUKES BILBO'S STAND.

J. B. SNIDER, Jr., secretary of the Democratic executive committee and editor of several north Mississippi newspapers, says that Fred Sullens and Theo. G. Bilbo would destroy anything in their path to accomplish Bilbo's election to congress and asks: "It is strange that if Gov. Bilbo wanted to go to Congress he did not run in his home district, where he was born and raised. Why should there be a special law to enable him to run for Congress. What manner of a man is this who has to have a special dispensation and who is too big or too selfish to abide by the laws which regulate the rest of us?"—Biloxi News.

DICTATOR

THE self-styled Kingfish of Louisiana has reached the conclusion that it is not a good thing for a man to be regarded as a political dictator in a democratic land where the people dislike the tyrant.

"I have been a slave," he said. "I have worked more than two men 20 hours a day to keep the schools, hospitals and banks open."

Long's soliloquy reminds us again of the fact that no matter what a man seeks when he gets it its lure has faded away.

That is Fate's method of mankind that men may grow. It is proof that Long is in reality a Louisiana dictator; that he has realized at last that which he has long sought and having witnessed the fulfillment of his dream, he is seeking more worlds to conquer.

Since life moves in a circle of antithesis we would not be surprised to hear that the Kingfish is now reading Thoreau and Wagner and has espoused the simple life.

The Kingfish is just about ready to RENUNCIATE. Long hitherto has liked power. It has been his meat and bread; for he had not yet known what it meant.

To be sure, Long is no great dictator; he can not come within a furlong of the 14 strong men who ruled Athens. He is not even as big as Bilbo, for he lacks his genius. He only appears to have ripened too soon and now maybe the dry rot is in store for him.—Clarksdale Register.

ing and the high school department shows an increase of 40 per cent due to four county schools sending their high school students there. At Webb school, Bay St. Louis, there are about 65 students and at Taylor ward school about 35. The Bay city schools opened for enrollment and classification Friday, observed Monday as a holiday and began class work Tuesday morning. At the opening session at the high school Friday S. J. Ingram, superintendent, presided and made the opening address, outlining plans for the ensuing year's work. The Municipal Band played and the choral department of the school sang.

Many wish to be mayor in Bay St. Louis. While the office of chief executive of the city pays the same stipend as that received by commissioners, there is a greater average in number of candidates for second place than for first.

Five for the mayorality and six for two commissioners. Each pay the same, $200.00 per month. Whether you get to be mayor or commissioner you get the same pay. The mayor's job might carry more dignity and honor, but he is the individual who gets the most cussin' and is the target for general complaint.

Candidates for mayor are men of experience. Three (?) of the office. One has been honored repeatedly with county office and another has been in active and successful business all his life. Plenty of material, all good. No trouble to pick. Plenty more not announced and plenty more who would not be burdened with the responsibility of public life.

A HAPPY EVENT

The members and friends of the First Baptist Sunday School, colored, pastored by Rev. H. H. Lowe, were highly entertained Labor Day at a picnic given by Mr. W. A. Tate, of Pass Christian, Miss.

Three trucks of children left the church at 10:20 o'clock, yelling, whooping and singing negro spirituals. They stopped at Mr. Tate's residence for nearly an hour, where they had the pleasure of seeing the beautiful fish pond and the pretty well-trained horse which was raised by Mr. Tate.

The horse could do so many things he could count, and talk in a way. Mr. and Mrs. Tate made it very pleasant for us, after which we proceeded to the picnic grounds about one and one half miles north-east of Cuevas, Miss., where we were entertained in a big way. Mayor Spence of Pass Christian was present, he made us welcome and told us to be happy and assured us that they were our friends.

You should have seen us drinking pop, eating ice cream and good old barbecued pork, to say nothing of the water melons.

We shall never forget the occasion.

Mr. Tate is a broad hearted Christian and is one of the best land-scapers in Mississippi. We are going to prove to him that we appreciate this festival. —A PARTICIPANT.

Son of Bootlegger Tacks On Tax For Conner

Europa, Miss., Sept. 9. Children of the Webster county bootleggers are becoming great students of the science of government and the new system of tax gathering. Previous to the "legger" round up in Webster, Montgomery and Choctaw a few weeks ago in which Deputy Prohibition Officer Chapman, Sheriff Suggs, of Webster, and Sheriff Williams of Choctaw, bagged 57 "leggers" two under cover men not having sufficient "liquid" evidence against a certain legger, made a second purchase. The "red" legger found the pater familias, but a young son, who answered the call, told the men he could serve them. They asked for a half gallon. When the jar was produced, the undercover men wanted to know the charges. The boy said "Two Dollars and a dime."

"What's the time for," one of the men asked.

"That's sales tax for Governor Conner," the youth replied.

Couldn't Fool Him

He was picked and the policeman found him at 2 a. m., clinging to a lamp post and shouting "Lemme in!"

"There's nobody lives there," said the cop.

"Don't lie," retorted the stew, pointing aloft. "There's a light up stairs."—Boston Transcript.

McADOO AT 69 TRIES COMEBACK;

BATTLES WET FOE, 34, FOR SEAT

McAdoo Is Dry While His Young Republican Opponent Is Drippingly Wet—Race For California Senatorial Seat Watched With Interest—History of Two Interesting Characters.

By PHILLIP J. SINNOTT

SAN FRANCISCO—California's 2,000,000 voters are going to find it difficult to register their approval or disapproval of prohibition, the hardest-fought issue in the 1932 political campaign.

Nationally, the Democratic party is committed to repeal and the Republican party is committed to a reestablishment plan, but voters of this state now face the paradoxical situation raised by a Republican senatorial candidate who is a fiery champion of repeal and a Democratic candidate who has yet to declare himself on the prohibition issue in 1932.

It all comes about as the result of the state's Democrats nominating William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, as their senatorial candidate and the choice of Tallant Tubbs, youthful San Francisco manufacturer, by the Republicans. McAdoo and Tubbs will go to the polls in November in a battle for the Senate seat now held by Senator Samuel Shortridge, whom Tubbs defeated for re-nomination.

This race, which promises to be one of the hottest in the nation, will be between a 69-year-old political veteran who almost became his party's presidential candidate in 1924 and an aggressive 34-year-old San Franciscan whose name scarcely is known beyond the borders of his state.

McAdoo, formerly the high priest of the nation's Democratic days and famed for his war-time service in Woodrow Wilson's cabinet, is attempting a comeback after eight years' retirement from the political arena. Tubbs, hitherto a member of California's legislature, is making his first bid for a major political office.

The paradoxical situation that found each candidate at variance with his party's national prohibition stand arose during their primary campaigns. Tubbs was an out-and-out repealer; McAdoo, long a champion of the drys, made no specific utterance.

The youthful nominee who replaced the veteran Senator Shortridge in the favor of California's Republicans is a native of California, a Yale graduate and the son of wealthy parents. Despite his parent's youth, he is no neophyte in affairs political. For eight years he has been a state senator and has established himself not only as a prohibition foe, but as an independent progressive. Though born to wealth, Tubbs' legislative record has satisfied labor and his interest in veterans' legislation has won him friends among ex-servicemen.

Rich, youthful and handsome, Tubbs was considered northern California's prize bachelor until the marriage a year ago to Olivia Pillsbury Gibson, equally prominent socially. A former war pilot who left Yale at the outbreak of hostilities in 1917 to join the army's aviation corps, he still flies his own plane. He has an autogyro which he used quite effectively during his campaign in getting over the state to his meetings, in business, he operates a large cordage factory.

In sharp contrast to Tubbs is his veteran opponent, McAdoo, who has returned to the political arena for the first time since his defeat for the presidential nomination in his historic battle with Al Smith at Madison Square Garden in 1924. He played a prominent part at the recent Democratic Convention in Chicago when he swung California's delegation to Roosevelt, thereby breaking a fast-developing deadlock and making Roosevelt's nomination certain. Previously, McAdoo had championed Garner for the nomination.

McAdoo also has an airplane, and his pretty daughter, Ellen, 17—who used to toddle around Grandfather Woodrow Wilson's knees in the White House—often accompanies him on his aerial campaigns. She accompanied her father to the Chicago convention and is becoming quite an experienced pilot. He has a palatial home at Los Angeles, but likes to spend his leisure hours at his small ranch near Santa Barbara.

At 69, McAdoo does more flying than any other "passenger" in the United States. He commutes between his Los Angeles and Washington law offices in his four-passenger monoplane, often being accompanied by Mrs. McAdoo. Captain Harry Ashe, former army flyer, is his pilot.

Mrs. McAdoo is the former Eleanor Wilson, youngest daughter of the war-time president, whom McAdoo wed in a brilliant ceremony in the Blue Room of the White house in 1914. In addition to Ellen, they have another daughter, Mary Faith, now 12.

McAdoo's life story is the typically American narrative of a poor boy who worked his way up to position and wealth.

Born in Marietta, Ga., in 1863, the seventh son of an old Southern family, his first job was as a newsboy. At 18, he became a deputy federal court clerk at Chattanooga, Tenn., and was later admitted to the bar. Several years later he moved to New York to practice law and later won fame and fortune as president of the company which drilled the first railroad tunnels under the Hudson river.

His first wife, Sarah Hazlehurst Fleming, whom he married in Chattanooga in 1885, died in 1912. She left six children, all now married.

A delegate to the Baltimore convention that nominated Wilson in 1912, McAdoo was an active worker in Wilson's behalf during the campaign of that year. When Wilson was elected, McAdoo was made secretary of the treasury. He held the office during the war, floating the gigantic Liberty bond issues, raising billions in taxes for the army and navy, and eventually serving as director of the nation's railroads when they were under government operation.

No Rain, Lightning or Wind Effects Used In "Doctor X" Mystery

A mystery melodrama without benefit of wind, rain or lightning is almost unique in screen history, but "Doctor X," First National's exciting Technicolor picture, at the A. & G. Theatre, Sunday and Monday, has that added distinction.

Dramatists from Shakespeare's time down have almost invariably called on nature for help in the building of melodrama. The elements have always been considered legitimate aids in setting an atmosphere of mystery and suspense. The old stage mechanic out-did nature at her worst in staging thunder storms such as were never heard in fact in a way that would shame a South Seas hurricane.

But the material used in "Doctor X" was considered effective enough without adding unnecessary weather complications for heightening dramatic effect. In this mystery the scenarioist dealt with the activities of a skillful criminal in a setting made weird enough by associating it with a half dozen half-mad scientists, each working toward some uncertain end.

"Doctor X" is a picture with real thrills and a beautiful romance. Through its thrilling sequence more Lee Tracy, Lionel Atwill, Fay Wray, Preston Foster, John Wray, Arthur Edmund Carewe and George Rosner. Michael Curtiz directed.

WITH THE MOVIES AND FILM FOLKS

Joe E. Brown is now working on a new picture, "You Said a Mouthful" with Ginger Rogers as the feminine lure.

Farina of "Our Gang" comedies is a boy whose name is Allen Hoskins. Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle has completed the first of a series of two-reel comedies. It is his first film in twelve years.

Clyde Elliott, director of "Bring 'Em In Alive" will sail soon for India and Malaysia, where he will make a jungle picture for Fox.

Boris Karloff, when he finishes "The Old Dark Horse" will be in "The Invisible Man." This is a story by H. G. Wells, scheduled to begin production next month.

Kay Francis will be opposite Ronald Coleman in "I Have Been Faithful," the screen version of "Cynara." She goes to Samuel Goldwyn by courtesy of Warner Bros.

Billie Burke, widow of Florio Ziegfeld, will live in Los Angeles and expects to make the screen her future career.

The rush of pictures continues to turn-in employment at Hollywood, with more pictures being made by the major companies than at any time since 1929.

Colleen Moore is returning to the screen and will play opposite Wallace Beery in "Flesh" to be produced by M-G-M. When Miss Moore left First National at the beginning of the talking picture era, she was reputedly its highest paid star, getting $12,000 a week.

The story is that M-G-M studio is having story trouble, with various productions which have been slowed down while writers got to work.

Among the stories affected ran in Charles Macklin's "Prosperity," the All-Banyone "Rasputin" and "The Black Cat of the Bluebeard."

Columbia loaned Constance Cummings to Paramount and, in turn, borrowed Carole Lombard to play opposite Pat O'Brien in "Virtue."

Laurel and Hardy, comedians will be back at Hollywood this week, after a vacation abroad. This team has been together for six years and its current program includes six two-reelers and a feature.

Warner Bros. is producing a new "Grand Hotel" type of picture, with a roster of stars which include Warren William, Kay Francis, Joan Blondell, George Brent, Ruby Keeler and others.

Cecil B. De Mille is producing "The Sign of the Cross" in the grand manner of the early days, with costumes, Roman banquets, milk baths, and thousands of extras. This is a Paramount feature with Freddie March, Claudette Colbert, Elissa Landi and Ian Keith.

Fox is very active with eleven pictures underway, including "Cavalcade" and "Tess of the Storm Country." Joel McCrea, borrowed from RKO, will play opposite Janet Gaynor in the latter picture.

Clara Bow's "Call Her Savage" still requires a leading man with the prospect that Gilbert Roland will get the assignment.

Noah Beery, Jr., who did such good work in two series, has been signed by Universal to star in a series of Westerns.

Only Chance

The squad of recruits had been taken out to the rifle range for their first try at marksmanship. They knelt at 250 yards and fired. Not a hit. They were moved up to 200 yards. Not a hit. They tried at 100. Not a hit. "Tenshun," the sergeant bawled. "Fix bayonets! Charge! It's your only chance." The Army and Navy Journal.

Sutter's Fine Record

Closing their home stay of the season with a double triumph over the Athletics before the largest crowd of the year, the New York Yankees clearly demonstrated their championship caliber. It is interesting to observe that the Yankees played 77 at home of which they won 62. As they left their home grounds, the team had completed the remarkable record of not being shut out during 135 games played up to that time.

Olin Dutra, of Santa Monica, California, captured the National Professional Golf title and closed a three week's game which won him three titles. In all he played exactly 304 holes in 31 shots under par which is supposed to be some kind of a record. In the P. G. A. show, at St. Paul, he conquered perfect figure by 19 strokes in his six day, 196-hole game.

The American team easily retained the Walker Cup by swamping their British rivals by a point score of 8-1. On the first day, the defenders made a clean sweep in the foursomes and, on the second day, in the singles, the Americans won four, halved three and lost only one. Thus far the seventh consecutive time, the golf combat has ended in a victory for American golfers. The team this year was captained by Francis Ouimet. While the presence of four junior members caused some comment, the newcomers came through in fine shape and proved quite sufficient to the task at hand.

A team of ranking American players led by Ellsworth Vines, National Singles Tennis Champion, will make a five months' tour of Australia and the Pacific Islands. The group will leave San Francisco in October, stopping at Honolulu, New Zealand and Tasmania. Other members of the squad will be Wilmer Allison, John Van Ryn and Keith Gledhill, of California. Mrs. Allison Mrs. Van Ryn and the soon-to-be Mrs. Vines are expected to go on the tour.

Kaye Don has been balked again in his quest of the Palmworth trophy. Gar Wood's mahogany thunderbolt, Miss America X, took two victories from the British challenger but as an international speed contest, the races were hollow competition.

In the first race, the challenger Miss England III, led the way from the start and at one time was a mile ahead. Then engine trouble developed, the British boat slowed up and Wood passed into the lead to win the race by two miles. The challenger was filling with water and settling by the stern as she passed the finish line.

In the second race, two days later, the motors on the British boat balked in the first mile and stopped completely as the fourteenth mile began. No one knows what happened. The motor that stopped in the first race stopped again. A little later she other stopped. After working frantically for twenty minutes, the British challenger was hauled in. No new speed marks were set. Wood's average for the first race was 76.014, slower than the 77.390 of Miss IX in 1930 and the race record of 89.913 miles made by Miss England II a year ago.

Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans, gave the tennis world something to think about last week in the national championship play. He came thru the field in fine shape to meet Vines in the semi-finals. He almost conquered the Wimbledon champion, having victory in his grasp in the third and fourth sets after winning the first and second. Out of the 75 games played in the prolonged five-set duel the Tulane boy won 35 against the 40 that went to Vines.

After the Sutter-Vines match there were many to predict that the Californian faced defeat at the hands of either Allison or Cochet, the other semi-finalists, whose match had to be concluded on Saturday morning. The Frenchman won, however, and when he met Vines on the court the American delighted the fans by beating him in three straight sets, 6-4, 6-4 and 6-4.

It seems that Vines has arrived. Already this season he had conquered the great French star, and Cochet's presence in this country was generally explained by his desire to avenge the defeat which he suffered at the hands of Vines when the American was in France. The fact that Vines has taken Cochet's measure twice in succession means that a new champion has come into his own.

The illness of Babe Ruth, Yankee slugger, generally considered the vital spark of the New York machine, comes as a distinct blow to the American league leaders, but their margin was large enough to be safe from anything except a miraculous combination of insurgency on the part of the other contenders and a disastrous lapse on the part of the Yankee players. Ruth's condition may improve sufficiently for him to get into the game before the World Series, which begins September 28th.

Benny Leonard, former champion is continuing his comeback trail and seems to be getting along. In his day Benny was a real champion and many fans hope he will be able to acquire a title after the lapse of years. Benny ruled the lightweight from 1917 until he retired in 1925. In his last fight he weighed 151 pounds, which puts him in the middleweight division.

Chicago seems reasonably certain to represent the National League at this is written but the Pirates have not given up. Some weeks ago the Pittsburgh boys looked like a prairie fire but they hit a disastrous slump and allowed the Cubs to pull ahead. However, the Pirates have been going good lately and the National league pennant may not be decided until the last game is played.

Open Schedule With
Aloysius 100 Pounders

Last Friday the initial call for football in the small yard at Stanislaus was answered by fifty five young athletes eager to get down to real business.

Of last year's team there will be very few available as most of that team are aiming at a berth on the third team. However, Wilbur Carly, a guard, Edward Anderson, a center, George Gerchow, a half, and A. Combe, an end, will be back. Bro. Leonard, the new coach of the Juniors, will have a good deal of worthy material from his last year's Pebbles. Among these he is figuring on James Henry, Dave Derbes, Dave Glover, Joe Glover, Tom Quintini, Fred Fayard, James Filkins, and George Hauser to take positions on the Junior team this year.

Following is the list of the other boys trying for either the Junior or the Pebbles: L. Pierre, H. Piemmo, T. Gordon, G. Peranich, L. Elliott, H. Bopp, J. Perre, A. K. Roy, C. J. Stockton, J. Defelice, G. Gianelli, B. McGrath, L. Kidd, M. Piper, T. Walsh, A. Gianelloni, W. Price, R. Grevenberg, E. McGrath, C. Polman, J. Filkins, J. Verges, A. Smith, T. White, L. Barber, C. Anderson, V. SOIL, PLANT FOOD AND CROP PRODUCTION.

(Article No. 2.)

As we study carefully the results of research by Scientists into the mysteries of plant life, we find mother nature does many strange things.

Quoting from noted specialists, we find "The wonderful power of nature to combine its elements so as to create plant growth is so strange and difficult to understand as to be nothing short of miraculous.

"Think what wonders are performed when we take 10 pounds of clover seed, put them in the soil and in the course of the season harvest 30,000 pounds of hay. With 60 pounds of beans or peas there is a crop of 20,000 pounds. With 10 pounds of corn we get a crop of 30,000 pounds.

"How little we give! How much nature returns.

"No manufacturer can take a little thing and convert it into a big thing. Nature alone can do that.

When the tiny seed calls for food, nature assembles its forces of soil and water. It compounds them into a form the plant can use and feeds it. If the soil has all of the plant food elements in a measure but not enough of some to make the crop grow and produce sufficiently for our labor, the soil must have its supply increased. Moreover, the plant cannot feed and grow successfully unless the soil is tilled.

"Thus man has a very important part to play in the miracles of plant growth. He must see that the plant is well fed and that the soil is good feeding place for the plant. But while the crop increase is a great miracle, there are a good many things in connection with it we do understand and about which we are so learn from subsequent articles."

What the Soil Contains.

"In looking for causes behind the growth of crops, we naturally turn to the soil to find what it contains. We find that it is made up of water, air, organic matter, bacteria and rock particles.

"In studying the part water plays we find that it dissolves plant food it carries plant food up into the plant and it is composed of hydrogen and oxygen which are plant food themselves.

"Air in the soil and outside contains plant food elements and is required by the soil bacteria; it is needed for germinating the seed and promoting root growth.

"Organic matter is any vegetable or animal matter. It improves the tilth of the soil; permits a better circulation of air in the soil. It increases the water holding capacity of the soil. It not only contains some plant food but when the organic matter decays it brings about chemical changes that increase the amount of available plant food.

"Bacteria soils have a very important part to play. They break down or decompose plant food and make it soluble or available to growing plants. Rock particles constitute by far the greatest part of soils. These particles may be so small as those of clay, as large as course sand, or any size between these two extremes. "These rock particles are the sources of mineral plant foods derived from rock."

COTROL PLANT DISEASES AND INSECT PESTS

Within the past ten days, quite a number of farmers, truck growers and others have called at my office for information regarding control of plant diseases and insect pests. And this is to advise that I shall be pleased to assist anyone with these problems. If I am unable to handle your troubles personally, I shall be glad to take up with the proper Bureau of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, or the State Plant Board for a solution.

NEW ORLEANS PAPER SAYS SONGFEST EVENT SHOULD BE FOSTERED

Commends Gulfside Song Festival and Says Worthy Of Substantial Assistance.

Under caption of "It Should Be Fostered," the New Orleans Item of recent date carries an editorial in which it commends the song festival held at Gulfside, the Negro recreational and educational institute located at Waveland and further recommends the event as one well worthy of substantial assistance of the well-to-do.

In reproducing an editorial or article does not necessarily mean approval by the newspaper carrying a reproduction, but we do so in this instance. Bishop Jones and his associates are doing a splendid work, sound and safe, in addition to this annual festival of song.

The N. O. Item says:

Well-to-do esthetes occasionally make the grand tour to New York or Hampton to hear more or less studied and refined renditions of the negro songs indigenous to the United States, which many critics are recognizing in late years as perhaps America's most distinctive contribution to song and music. They come back with great enthusiasm sometimes half ecstatic, over what they have heard.

They waste time and money because they can hear this same negro folk-music unadorned by refinement, close to its roots in the soil from which it sprang, right here at home. A little of the money we spend on these trips, if put in the right place, would greatly expand the scale on which the old negro spirituals are kept alive and cultivated in the old manner, over at Gulfside, the admirable resort for negro education promoted and managed by Bishop Jones, scarcely more than one hour's ride from New Orleans.

We have observed these Gulfside song festivals each summer since they began. They were the real thing at the beginning. They have been improving in scope and excellence ever since. They have been growing steadily in the regard of a great many discriminating white persons, who go to Gulfside to hear them. About 2,000 of these were there last Sunday. All of whom can and will undoubtedly be there again when the Bishop rings the bell next summer.

The perfect concert of nearly 500 natural singers with an intuition for harmony, drawn together in seven groups from seven different places, who had never before sung in chorus, was a revelation of what is possible with real folk-music.

Professor Lee, of Handsboro, travels around between Gulfport, West Gulfport, Biloxi, Pearlport, Turkey Creek, and Bay St. Louis rounding up and rehearsing each group separately, in its own place. The groups and their members change from year to year. When they come down to Gulfside, they meet for the first time, as a chorus, as they line up for a finished performance of 24 numbers. Even under these conditions their attack is about as accurate and inspiring as the painfully rehearsed chorus of a Metropolitan Opera company.

We recall nothing like it in this respect except the performance of thousands of voices in a great German saengerfest recruited from scores of scattered cities. That music is folk-music too.

The humor and pathos of the negro race were richly expressed in the melodies of Gulfside's varied program last Sunday. It lifted many a white listener a little above the earth for a brief space.

These gatherings also seem to us to be doing excellent work in promoting acquaintance and sympathy between the intelligent and liberal white and negro people along the Coast. They are to be commended on this ground too.

Either way, as art or social service, these Gulfside festivals are worthy of substantial assistance from our well-to-do people. The admirable chorus now recruited could easily be raised at small cost to 1000 or 1500 voices. The facilities are ample for 10,000 or 12,000 listeners. This Gulfside song-festival could be made an institution that would attract each year many discriminating people from the states all around us, while giving more of our own people an artistic and educational treat.

MULLER CANDIDATE FOR COMMISSIONER CITY BAY ST. LOUIS

Man of Vast Experience in Business Life Offers Ser- vices to Voters of City

Mr. George T. W. Muller is announced in this issue of The Echo as a candidate for commissioner, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, Saturday, October 8. Mr. Muller, pioneer grocery merchant, professional musician and an expert insurance man for twenty years now serving in the capacity of president and expert inspector for the Property Holders Mutual Aid Fire Indemnity Society of 544 Audubon Building, New Orleans.

"After many years of request by numerous friends of Bay St. Louis," said Mr. Muller, "I have decided to run as a candidate purely on my own record and not on that of knocking any opposing candidate. I feel that the voters of Bay St. Louis are fully qualified to select one who will not only strive to help Bay St. Louis but whose object will be to solely help also the people as well as the community.

"I stand for the upbuilding of Bay St. Louis, tax reduction, public improvements, reduced water rental and encourage new business enterprises."

George T. W. Muller is a man who is fully qualified to handle the management of the public works of Bay St. Louis because of his vast knowledge of public property due to the supervision of Property as President of the Property Holders' Mutual Aid Fire Indemnity Society of New Orleans, La. In connection with his work he has come face to face with the needs of the property-holders and is prepared to render service to them with the utmost of his capability as a property supervisor of twenty-five years standing. During this period George T. W. Muller has been able to cope with any situation that seemed to present itself notwithstanding the magnitude of the obstacle that came within his vision.

Mr. Muller intends to see that there is a substantial tax reduction, equal division of public works, public improvements, a reduced rental of water service, and to encourage and foster new business enterprises that will aid the manifest unemployment.

Mr. Muller does not make any promises that will not be realized. In his inspection work, Mr. Muller fully comprehends the need for adequate fire protection and he aims to make Bay St. Louis a city of 100 per cent protection. TELEPHONE SERVICE

"We wish to express our appreciation for the super service rendered us Wednesday when we burdened your exchange with the task of calling every telephone in the city..." writes a business man. "Please accept our thanks for the prompt service during the illness of our little boy," says a parent.

JUST WHAT is the value of telephone service? Does it consist of making it easy to settle emergency problems, or is it in the day-after-day succession of important details common to every business and household?

Probably the answer is that both in emergencies and in the daily routine the telephone plays an essential part, saving time—getting business—arranging for the family's social affairs—rendering service.

Undoubtedly that is why so many folks agree that the value of telephone service so greatly outweighs the cost that it really doesn't pay to try to do without it.

FAMOUS WHITE HOUSE HOTEL AT BILOXI IS SOLD FOR $25,000.00

Result of Foreclosure Sale— $275,000.00 Bond Mort- gaged Satisfied as Result.

The Lamar Life Insurance Company of Jackson was the purchaser recently at $25,000.00 of the White House Hotel at Biloxi at a $275,000 bond mortgage foreclosure sale conducted at the courthouse in Gulfport. The purchase by this concern was in cooperation with the bond holders it was said.

The White House as the hostelry is known has been operated for a number of years by the White family and is said to have been the pioneer Mississippi Coast resort hotel in advertising in northern newspapers and magazines.

So successful was this advertising of the resort features of the beautiful Coast section that hundreds of tourists were attracted to Biloxi, it was pointed out.

The White House will continue to operate, it was understood, and although the summer season is now closing it will be ready for the winter season the middle of December.

When Judge W. A. White and other members of the White family in whose hands the operation of the hotel has been realized that the property would have to be placed in the hands of the bondholders, all outstanding bills for operation were paid and all current bills were taken care of as they came due, leaving no indebtedness, it was pointed out.

Paulding, Miss., Sept. 10.—Jasper county's historic 95-year-old court house here was completely destroyed by fire of undetermined origin Saturday.

Records of the county since its formation in 1833 were all consumed by the flames, two typewriters being the only salvaged from the blazing building.

The courthouse was a two story brick structure, erected in 1837. The lower floor provided offices for the

ROWLAND RESIGNS AS PRESIDENT'S REPRESENTATIVE

Lamont Rowlands, Picayune, President Hoover's official representative in Mississippi and chairman of the administration's patronage committee in this state, has tendered his resignation to the president, it was learned, following a conference between Rowlands and members of the patronage committee.

It was further learned that the Republican state leader had asked that he be relieved of his party duties shortly after the first of the year, but agreed to continue until after the Republican national convention in June upon President Hoover's request. Following the convention he re-tendered his resignation.

So far as could be ascertained President Hoover has not acted upon the resignation. However, it was stated that it likely will be accepted and a member of the patronage committee named to fill the post.

Other members of the patronage committee are: Ernest M. Hawkins, Corinth; Chas. H. Blewett, Natchez; Ben F. Cameron, Meridian and Mrs. Mary Gamble, Greenville.

Members of the Republican state executive committee ("Lily-white" faction) said Rowlands' resignation would have no bearing on the work of that group.

Rowlands has served as official representative of the president in Mississippi for four years. During which time he, with others of the committee, have had charge of patronage matters in the state.

various officials, and the upper floor contained the court room.

The fire apparently started in the rear of the structure and flames had completely enveloped it before the alarm was sounded.

Paulding is one of the two county seats in Jasper, the other being located at Bay Springs. It is believed doubtful that any structure will be erected to replace the old courthouse.

Paulding was at one time a thriving town in this section of the state, but in recent years had dwindled down to a few houses. The town was named for John Paulding.

The county jail, located some 50 of 60 feet from the court house, was untouched by the flames.

WORK AND PLAY AT S. J. A.

Last Wednesday, September 7, S. J. A. reopened her doors and welcomed her pupils to another session of diligent work and joyful play.

Judging by the smiling faces beaming everywhere and the merry sounds of laughter that echoed throughout the halls it must not have been such an ordeal to leave the fun and freedom of vacation behind and begin again the daily routine of classwork.

Wednesday was mainly spent in making schedules and adjusting one's choice of subjects to their order on the curriculum. Besides new teachers had to be met and many new classmates welcomed. The noon bell rang before one realized how quickly time had gone by and the school was dismissed for the day.

Monday of this week saw the adjustment of all conflicts in the schedule and work began in real earnest from the Senior Class of '33, each of whose members declare that she will be valedictorian to the tent of learning the names of the "little dwarfs and fairies" to whom they are being introduced.

If a "good beginning" is a guarantee of a "good end" then S. J. A. may confidently look forward to one of the happiest and most satisfactory of school sessions in her annals.

IN MEMORIAM.

Older pupils and friends of St. Joseph Academy were deeply grieved to learn of the death of Sr. Mary Florence, who for some twelve or thirteen years had so generously labored among them here in Bay St. Louis in the double capacity of teacher and of sacristan.

Sr. Mary Florence died in New Orleans on Saturday, September 3, after a prolonged illness of more than two years' duration. She is well remembered by many pupils in the Academy today and by still many more who have already left school, to all of whom she taught the rudiments of education. Many too, were those with whom she came in contact as Sacristan of Our Lady of the Gulf.

All of these were over impressed first, and foremost by Sr. Mary Florence's piety and by her devotion to her duties. With the sweet memories which they keep of Sr. Mary Florence in their hearts these friends and pupils breathe a fervent prayer that God will not delay in bestowing upon her the crown of glory which she so richly merited by her beautiful life.

THREE STUDENT BODIES ATTEND MASS.

The student bodies of St. Stanislaus College, the back school for boys and the pupils of St. Joseph's Academy attended Mass in a body Wednesday morning. The Mass was said in honor of the Holy Ghost and was offered to ask the special guidance and protection of the Holy Ghost on our students during the current session.

The hymns which were sung during the Mass by both boys and girls added to the impressiveness of the occasion and the large number of communions testified to the earnestness with which the pupils of these schools are beginning their work.

THE SENIORS INTRODUCE THEMSELVES.

To think that it isn't a dream of the future any longer. Somebody pinch me. We're Seniors! Gee! After waiting so long for the top of the ladder to get in view, we're now actually standing upon it.

In case you have any difficulty in recalling us,—there's Evelyn Nix, (as studious as ever); Ruth Taber (she's gotten so thin you'd hardly recognize her); Catherine and Francis Scaife (more likeable than ever); Alma Le Jeune (she brings her school books home every night now); Theresa Linam (not changed one speck); Lucille Perle (the same jolly old hook); Yvette Teillard (the famous letter-writer still more famous); Carrie Keizer (Carrie has a knot now); Elizabeth Vincent (the same Liz except for the curly hair); and Joyce Wolf; Irene Johnson (you remember her) she hasn't returned to school yet, but we expect her soon. And there's a new senior, so make room on the ladder classmates! She is Faith Boyd Fayard from Gulfport. Let's give Faith a hopeful and charitable hand, girls, for altogether we thirteen (yes, and not one bit superstitious) are going to be the biggest and best class ever graduated from S. J. A.

Of course we are not organized as yet but give us time to get over the first big thrill of being called Seniors and we'll have a real class president, colors, motto, rings and—well, you'll hear from us again soon.

ALL AGOG ON THE JUNIOR FRONT.

What has happened to the Sophs of last year? Surely being Juniors wouldn't change them that much. There's only seven now but what an ambitious seven. They won't tell us much but we did find out that they intend to do a lot for the "Gym Fund" this year and already those mysterious lasses have plans made. Well, as we all know "it's the early bird that catches the worm" and something tells me it will be a nice, fat, juicy one. And are they studying hard! If you don't believe me just ask their teachers. Maybe it's because school just started but I really believe they're in earnest about it. Time of course will tell.

HEITZMANN—ELWELL

Roger Heitzmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Heitzmann, residing in Hancock street, and Miss Catherine Elwell, residing at Long Beach, Miss., were quietly married Saturday evening at Long Beach, Rev. Father Hager, pastor of St. Thomas Catholic church, performing the ceremony, after which the party left on a short honeymoon journey.

The groom is well and favorably known, older son of the family, and a valued employee of the Ford Motor Company, below New Orleans, an attaché of the company over a long period of time. He is an exemplary young man and deserving of the charming young lady whose future has been given to his care.

Mr. and Mrs. Heitzmann will reside in Bay St. Louis for the present. Both have many friends who extend best wishes and congratulations.

—Forster Commagere has resumed his duties as coach at Gulf Coast Military for the 1932-33 session and will continue in the capacity he has served the institution the past several years. Capt. Commagere has planned an interesting and most active football season.

—Bay St. Louis and other Coast friends of the Montgomery family of Bay St. Louis will learn with interest of the fact that they have leased and are operating the Planters Hotel, 208 Dauphine street, near Canal, where they will be glad to see and take care of visitors to New Orleans. With every modern convenience, one block from Canal street, and moderate rates the Hotel should prove attractive. M. J. Montgomery is manager.
